Equine precinct OK good news for region says Pederick

News that the Murray Bridge Equine Precinct development has finally been gazetted has been greeted with optimism and relief by local MP, Adrian Pederick.

‘The long-awaited decision ends a very lengthy planning process that has kept the region’s racing fraternity guessing for some years,’ Mr Pederick said.

‘Finally getting the green light on this major development is great news for the region and the city of Murray Bridge.

‘I know how hard the Murray Bridge Racing Club committee has worked on this and I congratulate them on their diligence and persistence.

‘I wish them and their joint venture partners well and trust the project proceeds without delay.

‘A development of this magnitude will be a boon for the city of Murray Bridge, providing a variety of opportunities and economic benefits.

‘Established as it is on a greenfields site, the precinct can be developed with due sensitivity to the latest planning and design principles.

‘It’s been a long time coming and many thought it would never happen. Now that it’s official, I look forward to it becoming a vibrant part of a growing community with a positive future.’
