

MEDIA RELEASE

Adrian Pederick MP

Member for Hammond

Monday December 11th, 2006

Local member of Parliament Adrian Pederick moved in to the new State electoral office on Mannum road recently, after 9 months in the previous temporary office in Seventh Street, Murray Bridge.

The new office is situated in an imposing old Federation-style villa, which has been extensively renovated for the purpose.

After many months of sharing one open office space, Mr Pederick and his three staff each have their own offices. Mr Pederick's electoral officers are Ms.Kim Duffield – Administration, Mr.Trevor Hammond – Media, and Ms.Narelle Preiss-Yeates – Office trainee.

The new location also allows easier car parking for constituents and other visitors, with a driveway at the side of the building leading to car parks at the rear of the offices.

One of the first tasks for Mr Pederick and his team following the recent shift of office furniture and computers is to prepare for a function on December 20th which combines Christmas drinks with an office opening.

Mr Pederick said the new office will allow him and his team to work more effectively and offer constituents better service.
